Close Vote In State Primary

KELLER, BYERS, TOURTILLOTT AND WHETSTONLAND

Local Primary Hotly Contested—Big Vote Cast.

Attorney Mark C. Keller of Dixon, Coroner Samuel J. Whetston of Steward and John H. Byers and A. T. Tourtillot of Dixon were victors in the three local contests which featured yesterday's Republican primary. Mr. Keller defeating five very active opponents for office of State Attorney. Mr. Whetston defeating H. W. Morris of Dixon by 162 votes for the nomination for coroner, and Byers and Tourtillot carrying Lee and DeKalb counties with majorities sufficient to give them the nomination over A. G. Harris of this city and Henry Allen of Whiteside county.

The contest for the coronership was the closest of the campaign. Morris gained a good lead in this city and in several townships of the county but he country districts were largely for the present incumbent and as later returns came in he commenced to overcome his opponent's lead. The victor's total was 3059, his opponent's being 2897.

Keller's Fine Victory
Mr. Keller's victory was notable, his majority over his nearest opponent being nearly 1000 votes. Each of the candidates exhibited great strength in certain individual townships, but the successful candidate ran strong everywhere in the county. The totals for the six candidates:

Keller	2135
Warner	1219
Wingert	1113
Gannon	1112
Kelly	760
Gebant	417

Byers a Whirlwind
The tremendous vote polled by John H. Byers for representative was a surprise to himself and to his most intimate boosters, for John proved himself a whirlwind as a vote getter. It was the first campaign he had ever made for himself and was curtailed somewhat by his presence in Washington as Secretary to Congressman McKenzie but notwithstanding his outdistanced all his rivals in the race in the county, the totals being:

Byers	8733
Tourtillot	7197
Harris	1820
Allen	877

County Anti-Thompson
The anti-Thompson ticket was given overwhelming support by the voters of the county. Sublette being the only precinct which failed to pile up big majorities for the state administration candidates. The total vote for the various candidates with Lee Center township missing is:

Crucial Series to Open This Afternoon in N. Y. and Chicago

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Sept. 16.—A three game series that may play a big part in deciding the American League pennant winner opened here today when the Chicago White Sox met the New York Yankees. In addition to "Babe" Ruth, New York's champion home run hitter, was seeking a chance to knock out his fiftieth home run.

Big crowds were expected by baseball men at each of the games because of the double attraction. The White Sox entered today's contest with a record of only eight games won out of the last nineteen played. Dick Kerr, left hander, was slated to pitch for Chicago against Jack Quinn.

A brass band of 50 pieces accompanied Ruth. The band is from St. Mary's Industrial School, Baltimore, where Ruth spent several years.

REDS VS. ROBBINS

New York, Sept. 16.—The eyes of the baseball world turned toward Ebbetts Field today where Brooklyn and Cincinnati clash in the first of the series of three games, that will have an important bearing on the outcome of the pennant race in the National League.

Brooklyn, now leading the League by a comfortable margin, has 12 more games to play. Cincinnati, the runner up, to nose out Brooklyn would have to capture 15 out of its 19 remaining games.

THOMPSON RING LEAD WAS CUT DURING TODAY

Complete Count May Be Necessary to Decide Contests.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Sept. 16.—A close race between the Lowden and Thompson candidates today made necessary a complete count of the votes cast in yesterday's primary to determine the result. Supporters of Mayor William Hale Thompson swept Chicago, winning all county and city nominations for their men, but the adherents of Governor Frank O. Lowden carried the rest of the state by a large majority, leaving the political scales wavering.

Results were still in doubt early this afternoon. Returns were coming in slowly with 1,717 precincts yet to be heard from, including 678 in Cook county and 1,439 down state.

With 3,620 precincts out of 5,737 in Illinois reporting this afternoon, Len Small, of Kankakee was leading John G. Oglesby in the Republican gubernatorial race by 36,537. The figures were: Oglesby 211,828; Small 248,635. In the senatorial race 3,569 precincts reporting gave Frank Smith of Dwight a lead of 29,663 over William B. McKinley of Champaign. The figures were: Smith 241,646; McKinley 212,583.

Fourteen hundred and ninety precincts downstate and 678 in Cook county were to be heard from.

Smith, Small Lead.
Returns from additional precincts later today gave in 3,100 precincts out of 5,737, fairly substantial leads for the Thompson (Republican) candidates.

In 1520 precincts in Cook county and 1580 precincts outside of Cook county, Smith was leading in the race for United States senator with 185,596 votes over 174,555 for McKinley and 29,582 for Chapfield.

Returns from 1530 precincts in Cook county and 1620 precincts outside of Cook county gave Small a total of 195,085 votes for governor over 170,359 for Oglesby, 15,549 for Carlstrom and 14,595 for Woodruff.

These additional returns were all from city precincts. The country precincts which were expected to return heavy votes for Governor Lowden's candidates, were slow in coming in.

Wait Official Count.
With more than twice as many precincts missing downstate as in Chicago and Cook county, indications are that an official count may be necessary to decide winners.

On the Democratic side James Hamilton Lewis, former United States senator, has won the nomination for governor by a large majority from Barratt O'Hara of Chicago, but the senatorial nomination probably will depend upon the official count. Returns from 2,211 precincts, including 344 downstate, gave Robert Emmet Burke, of Chicago, 45,120 and Peter A. Waller, of Kewanee, 44,083.

Joseph Cannon, Martin B. Madden and Fred A. Britton, Republican, and John W. Rainey, Democrat, are among the congressmen renominated. Britton polled 15,215 votes, winning by more than 12,000 over John A. Peterson.

Many Unopposed.
The following candidates in the primaries were unopposed and therefore were nominated for the offices indicated:

Democratic—
Attorney General, James T. Burns, Kankakee.
Clerk of Supreme Court, George F. Johnson, East Moline, Ill.
Clerk of Appellate Court, first district, Matt Franz, Chicago; second district, no candidate; fourth district, John L. Cooper, Fairfield.
Republican—

Telephone Service Fine Election Eve

The young ladies in the Dixon Home Telephone exchange established a very commendable record in the manner in which they handled the tremendous number of calls, brought about by the primary election yesterday. The telephone girls have reason to extend its thanks to the girls for the precincts with which they handled the hundreds of calls, which came into this office over four telephone lines from 6 o'clock until an early hour this morning.

In every instance the calls were perfectly handled and in out-of-town calls, also the service was fine. The telephone girls, who assisted in the compilation of nearly 10,000 figures in this office during the night.

SCORES ARE KILLED, HUNDREDS HURT, BUILDINGS ARE BADLY DAMAGED IN MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION TODAY NOON

Morgan & Co. Building and United States Sub-Treasury Damaged—Authorities Work on Bomb Explosion Theory.

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.)

New York, Sept. 16.—A mysterious explosion, disastrous in its effect, occurred at noon today in Wall street, killing more than a score of persons and injuring hundreds.

Office workers were just hurrying into the street for their noon day meal when a jet black smoke and flame rose from the center of the world's great street of finance.

Then came a blast. A moment later scores of men, women and children were lying, blood covered, on the pavements.

Two minutes later all the exchanges were closed. Men had turned from barter to an errand of mercy—and there was need of it.

While the police toiled for hours seeking the dead and injured, trained investigators were trying in vain to determine definitely whether the explosion had occurred from a bomb dropped in front of J. P. Morgan & Co., or whether an automobile dashing into a wagon loaded with explosives had taken its toll.

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.)

New York, Sept. 16.—A terrific explosion which rocked all of Lower Manhattan occurred at noon today outside the office of J. P. Morgan and company on Wall street. Several persons were killed and many others injured.

The list of casualties mounting as excited word passed from mouth to mouth at 12:30 was reported to have reached 15 killed and 50 injured, but an accurate count was impossible in the intense confusion that swept the financial district.

Auto Suspected.

It was equally impossible an hour after the explosion occurred to determine either its exact nature or location for spectators were held back by the police. It was reported, however, that shortly before noon an automobile drew up in front of the Morgan offices and that when Morgan detectives approached the machine one man alighted and either accidentally or purposely dropped what appeared to be a bomb.

Occupants of skyscrapers looking down on Wall street told another version of the automobile story. They declared they had seen the car draw up and the men leave it. These spectators advanced the theory that the bomb, if it was a bomb, had been timed. This version differed from the first as regards the two passengers and their chauffeur. The first story had it that they were among the dead or injured.

Police reserves hastily assembled found difficulty in coping with the crowds of many thousands of persons who tried to press themselves into Wall street, that narrow canyon in which automobiles can hardly pass each other with ease. Telephone service was shut off from many public booths in the vicinity and all banking offices were placed under extra ordinary guard.

Find Wrecked Car.

A wrecked automobile bearing the New Jersey license No. 24,246 was found near the Morgan building and the police tried to establish whether this was the machine which had figured so prominently in versions of the disaster.

An hour after the explosion occurred the police were inclined to the theory that it had been caused by collision of a T. N. T. truck and an automobile on Wall street, between the Morgan office and the sub-treasury building.

They pointed to the fact that a demolished truck was found near the wrecked automobile. The authorities switched their theory from dynamite to T. N. T. because there appeared to be no great hole in the pavement, such as would be caused by a bomb.

Police summoned all ambulances from 34th street south, and all available police reserves were mobilized.

The financial district after the explosion presented a scene of greatest demolition.

Bloody Scene.

In addition to the bodies of human beings and horses scattered over the pavement, great blotches of blood appeared on the white walls of Wall street office buildings. Almost every pane of glass in the vicinity was shattered and beside a mantle of broken crystal the streets were covered with fragments of brick and stone blasted from the base walls of the skyscrapers. Several persons were hurt in these office buildings when missiles hurtled through windows.

The front of the Morgan building was demolished and the sub-treasury was badly damaged. With the arrival of soldiers and police, fifty street cleaners were put to work sweeping up the streets to make possible easier passage of ambulances.

So far as could be learned members of the stock exchange no prominent financiers or change were injured. Thomas

BULLETINS EXPLOSION

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, Sept. 16.—At 1:15 p. m., the police estimated the number of injured at 200. After suspending trading in stocks today the governing committee of the exchange ordered that all deliveries of securities be deferred until Monday, except by mutual consent. The committee called another meeting for later in the day.

The unofficial estimate of dead at 1:20 was thirty.

All hospitals near the financial district were crowded with injured and physicians were summoned from all over the city.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Sept. 16.—Federal authorities will make an investigation of the explosion today in New York, the department of justice announced. William J. Flynn, chief of the bureau of investigation was expected to leave for New York during the day.

W. Lamont and Henry P. Davison, members of the firm, were in the Morgan offices but were not hurt.

Many Girls Hurt.

Many of the injured were girls working in office buildings. Hundreds of persons were thrown to the sidewalk with the force of the explosion and dozens of trucks and automobiles were pressed into service to carry away the wounded.

Little information was obtainable from the Morgan offices. J. P. Morgan himself is now abroad.

Excitement Great.

Never in its history has Lower Manhattan witnessed such excitement as prevailed today. Trading on both the stock and curb exchanges was ordered suspended for the day a few minutes after the explosion occurred and from then on Lower New York forgot all its business matters in attending to the needs of the injured.

Fire apparatus and ambulances dashed through the narrow crooked streets of the financial district, on which lay a covering of shattered glass and the broken remains of men and horses.

Among the bodies were those of three girls, terribly mutilated. A police cordon was hastily thrown around the entire financial district when thousands, hearing the explosion flocked there. Police reports at 12:35 had fifteen dead.

Guard U. S. Treasury.

Unofficial reports had thirty dead. The United States sub-treasury, immediately opposite the scene of the explosion, was placed under heavy police guard to protect the millions of dollars in gold, silver and paper money lodged in the great structure.

The first efforts of the police were directed toward aiding the injured and removing the dead. At 12:40 fourteen bodies were seen lying on the sidewalk and 10 others were reported to have been taken away by volunteer workers.

An emergency call was sent to Governor's Island, from which a heavy detachment was sent to New York to guard the sub-treasury and aid the police.

At 12:15 the report that the stock exchange had closed for the day was confirmed. The board of governors ordered the closing two minutes after the explosion.

Count Eight Bodies. Newspaper men counted eight bodies on the street and the bodies of several horses. The Morgan building appeared a shamble and part of the front of the sub-treasury across the street was torn away. The 40-story Equitable building was rocked by the explosion and all of Lower Manhattan.

Junius Spencer Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan, and a member of the firm, was badly cut by flying glass. Officials of the company denied first reports that a bomb had exploded in the Morgan building.

May Have Been Bomb. Underneath the wrecked automobile was found a New Jersey chauffeur's license made out to Jerome H. McKeen, of 1407 Nelson avenue, Bronx.

United States regulars from Governor's Island arrived on the scene at 12:50 for guard duty.

At 1:00 doubt was cast on the accident theory when members of the bomb squad hastened to the scene expressed the opinion that a bomb had exploded. They added that fragments of metal picked up on the street were being examined on the theory that they may have been bits of the infernal machine.

Frank Francisco, one of the most able investigators of the department of justice declared after arriving on the scene that it was his opinion that not a bomb plot, but a collision had been responsible for the blast which rocked skyscrapers, tore the fronts from office buildings for blocks around and scattered deadly missiles in all directions.

Business on the cotton exchange was at a standstill. The advisability of closing the exchange was under consideration.

To Patrol District. The call for soldiers from Governor's Island was sent by Martin Vogel, assistant secretary to the treasury, who has charge of the sub-treasury. With all the windows blasted out, Colonel William Wiegell, chief of staff at the military post announced that 200 infantrymen would patrol the financial district with fixed bayonets day and night with orders to allow no one to approach government property.

Mayor Hylan arrived at the scene at 1 p. m. to direct the efforts of municipal authorities.

The reported license number of the wrecked automobile was that of Dunham Beedon, 171 South Third street, South Orange, N. J. Beedon is manager of a pharmacy in Newark.

As far as it could be learned two hours after the explosion the disaster did not take the lives of any prominent financiers.

Although the front and sides of the Morgan banking house were demolished, no member was seriously injured.

J. P. Morgan, himself, is in Europe, but at the time of the blast, Thomas M. Lamont, Elliot C. Bacon, Dwight C. Bacon, Dwight C. Marrow and George Whitney, all directors of the company, were in consultation.

Police Commissioner Enright said that after conferring with members of the firm he had learned that Elliot C. Bacon was slightly injured and also Junius Spencer Morgan, another official of the company. Several employees were injured and one killed.

Was In Street. Mr. Enright quoted firm members as stating that the blast assuredly came from the street and not within the building.

Spectacular explosion ripped windows from the sub-treasury across the street from the Morgan office and within a short time soldiers from Governor's Island and all the police reserves that could be assembled were placed around the government building in which was stored more than a billion dollars in metal and notes. Banking houses also were placed under heavy guard and United States regulars with fixed bayonets were patrolling the streets.

Street Was Crowded. The explosion came at a time when the canyons of Lower New York were thronged with hustling office workers, intent only in crowding their way down Wall street to lunchrooms nearby.

A reporter of the Associated Press making his way down Wall street from Broadway, suddenly saw go high in front of him a cone of flame and smoke. It came from the very center of Wall and Broad streets between the Morgan building and the sub-treasury. It mounted so high that awnings on the fifth floor of many skyscrapers were burned to a cinder.

Fit for Battlefield. Then there was a roar that was heard far up Manhattan Island and hundreds of persons were hurled to the pavement. Cries arose and on Wall street, paved with broken glass, there rushed forth streams of blood more fit for a battlefield than America's financial center.

One man was seen to brush his hand over his eyes and then topple over dead into the gutter. Near him were found the bodies of three women and further on more bodies, lying side by side with the carcasses of horses.

Hardly had the roar of the explosion ended, when a rush for the financial district was made from all parts of the city. Thousands came moved only by curiosity, but there were others inspired by other motives—physicians an thrushes bent on missions of mercy and police, secret service men and soldiers ordered to protect property and run down bomb plotters, if bomb plotters there.

Found Wrecked Auto. The first thing that occupied the attention of the investigators were wrecks of a truck and automobile at the spot from which the blast was believed to have come. From the wreckage were taken a New Jersey automobile license whose reported number corresponded with that issued to Dunham Beedon, a Newark pharmacist, who was reported this morning to have come to Wall street on business.

Federal investigators, soon to be headed by William J. Flynn, chief of the Department of Justice bureau of investigation, summoned from Washington centered their attention on these wrecks.

Some advanced the theory that the automobile had collided with a powder wagon, and the Du Pont company was asked immediately to find out whether any of its vehicles had been in the vicinity at the time. This was done after construction men had expressed belief that the truck was of the type used in delivering explosives.

Other investigators sought to run down reports that a bomb had been exploded in front of the Morgan building.

Assistant District Attorney Tally, after visiting the scene, announced his belief that the explosion could not have been due to an accident.

At 12:01 O'clock. He said that one thing that led him to the conspiracy theory was the time of the explosion. This was fixed by a clock in the sub-treasury building which stopped at 12:01.

"The factors that led me to this belief," said Mr. Tally, "are that the time of the explosion was at 12:01 p. m., when probably the greatest damage could have been done, and the location of the explosion was midway between the Morgan offices and the new United States treasury building."

Working on the conspiracy theory the police picked up all remnants of the wrecked automobile and wagon, even going so far as to remove the shoes from a dead horse in order to establish the identity of the vehicles and their owners.

Detectives also picked up near the scene pieces of cast iron window weights, smudges of powder and other articles. There were dozens of these and the theory was advanced that they may have formed part of an infernal machine.

Collect All Debris. All pieces of clothing, including shreds of cloth and battered hats were collected by the police. The financial district was roped off and placed under heavy guard while the work of identifying victims was under way. Some bodies were so mutilated that hope of identifying them virtually had been abandoned. At the Broad street hospital alone from 150 to 200 persons were admitted and one intern stated that six of these had died from injuries. So crowded was the hospital that the injured were laid on floors and in hallways.

When the work of compiling the casualty list was begun it was found that William T. Joyce was the man killed in the Morgan banking house. He was a clerk in the securities department. His father, P. W. Joyce, who has charge of gold shipments for the Morgan firm, was badly injured in the blast.

At 2:30 o'clock, two and a half hours after the explosion the streets outside the police lines were packed with people while virtually every window was filled with onlookers. Bits of jagged glass continued to fall from windows, injuring those on the streets although not seriously.

Delegates who addressed the convention were optimistic over the prospects of the industry for the coming year. Officers will be elected this afternoon and the site for the 1921 convention selected.

Problems of the smaller newspapers occupied the attention of delegates at the Missouri Press Association convened here today in annual session.

Robber Posed as Automobile Broker

Into the mystery surrounding the death Tuesday morning of George L. Miller, Chicago business man, at Leland, Ill., a simultaneously with a bandit raid on the town, a new element entered yesterday. This was Stella Broughton, sweetheart of Miller.

Miss Broughton is prostrated in Madras, Ore., where she went from Chicago a few months ago. She knew Miller for a number of years as a prosperous automobile broker, who weekly invested thousands of dollars in automobile consignments, and who always carried large rolls of $100, $1000 and $5000 bills.

"I can't believe he was a robber," she sobbed yesterday while a newspaper correspondent was interviewing her. "I went with him constantly for over six months. He never mentioned anything of the kind and I believe I would have known it if he had been crooked."

Posed as Poultry Buyer. But while Miller was posing to Miss Broughton as an automobile broker, he was known to his landlady and friends in the neighborhood of 17 Leland street, his home, as a poultry buyer.

At the coroner's inquest held at Leland yesterday an open verdict was returned.

Testimony was to the effect that Miller had been a member of the bandit gang which had stormed Leland after an unsuccessful attempt to rob a bank at Franklin Grove, the previous evening.

Call Him Gang's "Broker." Miller, the police theorize, was the "lookout" for the gang when they attempted to rob the implement store behind which his body was found. The Leland police have come to the conclusion that Miller was shot by members of the gang who mistook him for the night village marshal.

Meanwhile Chicago police began an investigation into Miller's life. It is believed that if Miller was a bandit through his death the other members of the gang may be captured.

STERLING DEFY TO BROWNS TO BE ACCEPTED

Legion Ball Tossers Want to Play Series of Three.

The American Legion baseball team of Sterling is out with a challenge to the Dixon Browns for a three game series. The def calls for one game to be played in each city and the third and deciding game to go to the city showing the largest attendance at the two previous engagements.

The Sterling Legion team is of the opinion that the Browns have been going around with a chip on their shoulder and with plenty of excuses for losing the last game to the Legion, and to prove their ability the challenge for a three game series has been issued and will in all probability be accepted.

The Legion team had planned to enter several of their baseball players in their football team and a three game schedule would delay their opening the season with the pigskin. However, if the management of the Browns accepts the challenge, they say they are willing to do this in an effort to prove their superiority and are already counting on two of the three games.

If a floor has become badly worn in spots but does not need refinishing all over, most anybody can give it a coat of shellac.

The choice of shellac is to be recommended as shellac has two qualities of distinct merit.

In the first place it is easy to use.
Shellac flows from the brush and does not gum and stick.

In the second place it dries overnight. There is hardly a room that can't be closed up for 24 hours, at least if one plans a little. A coat of shellac applied late in the afternoon will be hard enough to use the next

PUBLIC REBELLING AGAINST HI PRICE

Attitude Has Forced General Readjustment of Values.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 16—The buying public has "rebelled" against ever mounting prices and has forced a period of readjustment of values.
Vice Governor Platt of the Federal Reserve Board declared today in a speech before the annual convention of the West Virginia Bankers' Association. Analysis of the country's business condition with respect to the price situation disclose a marked lessening of demand, he said, adding that the refusal to buy was traceable directly to public sentiment against high prices.

Mr. Platt's speech was designed as a reply to critics who had charged that the board's credit restriction and rediscount policies were responsible for the closing of scores of manufacturing establishments. Such charges he said, were without merit as the reason for the closing of many factories were found to be deeper seated and more widespread.

He would not forecast the extent to which price recessions would go. A lower range of prices would materially

"ease up the credit situation" Mr.
Platt declared, expressing the fear that it also would "increase grumbling and criticism."

The speaker explained the board sought to conserve credit for productive and crop moving purposes and did not desire "to open the flood gates of credit for speculation for such would absorb credit which might be employed in useful purposes."

GULBRANSEN Player-Piano

They All Sing the Latest with the Gulbransen

If a song is a "hit" anywhere you can get it right away in a player-roll for the Gul-bransen. All arranged so you can play it with spirit and expression. The words of verse and chorus printed on the roll.

There's nothing like the Gulbransen to give young folks and old a good time any time.
Keeps you up-to-date on music. Makes your home the center of entertainment. Does away with stupid evenings alone.

Every Kind of Music

More than 6000 compositions are ready for you in player-rolls for the Gulbransen. Besides the latest jazz or ballad, there are hundreds of good songs for those who sing well or are learning; also the principal numbers from all the grand operas, and every well known classical composition.

The Gulbransen is a great aid in musical study, either for those learning to play by hand to "show how it goes," or for those interested in higher musical interpretation. The Gul-bransen is capable of every form of musical expression. Even the amateur who "doesn't know one note from another" can learn to play it with artistic feeling.

Gulbransen Trade Mark

Gulbransen "Pedal Touch"

The secret of the Gulbransen performance is in its "pedal touch"—the "feel" of the pedals against the pressure of your feet—the quick response they give to your slightest touch.

Until you have once played a Gulbransen you cannot appreciate what this means. Probably every player-piano you have tried has seemed to "make you work." But the Gulbransen is so "Easy to Play" it actually helps you; you can play for hours without being conscious of effort.

Try a Gulbransen at our dealer's store named below. Probably you have noticed the "Baby at the Pedals"—actually playing the Gulbransen—in his window. Ask the dealer—or write us—for free copy of "Good Times with Your available and the fun you can have.

THE RUMMAGE SALE

Did you ever attend one? Here on a table is old Brown's silk hat that he wore to church many years and now that he's gone it has been sent by his family to the rummage sale to be disposed of for the benefit of the church.

And there on the counter is an old china pug dog that used to guard the mantel shelf in somebody's house. And on a rack hangs the Prince Albert coat that some fellow wore when he was married and which his wife kept as a treasured thing through the years; now she has given it away because the sentiment that attached to it is dead and has fluttered away like last year's leaf.

They are handy institutions, these rummage sales, enabling one, as they do, to give away for good purposes what he no longer needs, or wants or cares for. He holds on to such things a long time and then one day he gets tired seeing them around and away they go to the rummage sale, the second-hand store and the rag shop.

But the rummage of minds and characters most people hold on to and cherish forever. To their dying days they keep old and wornout prejudices and fight hard for them.

They hold and feed cankered hates and envies as things of great value, worth treasuring in their hearts.
They keep fast to habits, knowing they are bad, but lacking the will or the courage to throw them off.

They cast off only good resolutions and intentions because they interfere too much with comfort.

The next time you gather together your old clothes for the rummage sale and you have packed it all in one bundle, suppose you say to yourself:
"Let's see, what have I left out?
What else is there that I ought to get rid of? What passions, prejudices and habits are littering up my mind and character?"

You will not be able to get rid of this rummage as easily as you can dispose of your old clothes, but once having taken stock of it you will know yourself better. The first step to self-improvement is to become acquainted with your defects.

"I know everything except myself,"
said the celebrated vagabond, Villon.

AN AX TO GRIND

Funny how some popular and very expressive sayings originated.
"He has an ax to grind," is one of them.

Generally, people give Ben Franklin credit for that. But that isn't the way history records it. Charles Miner, a writer, who died in 1865, gave birth to that idea when in 1811 he published an essay in an obscure newspaper in Pennsylvania, entitled, "Who'll Turn the Grindstone?"

When Miner was a little boy he was accosted one winter morning by a man with an ax on one shoulder.

"My pretty boy, has your father a grindstone?" the lad was asked.

"And you are a fine little fellow, will you let me grind my ax on it?" was the next question.

Flattered, the child was induced to turn the grindstone until his hands were blistered.

Meantime the school bell rang.
When the ax was edged the owner changed his tune: "Now, you little rascal, you've played truant from school; scud to school or you'll rue it!"

When he again heard a flatterer,

AIN'T IT AWFUL?

Miner said: "That man has an ax to grind."

Later, he incorporated the idea in his essay. It has lived for 109 years.

Rice growers announce a cut in price to $3 a barrel. Eight dollars worth of rice, when boiled, would spread all over the yard and feed a family all winter.

What's a stern papa going to say when he tells his son he's headed for a reform school and is informed that Babe Ruth graduated from one?

The hand that rocks the cradle threatens to rock the politicians' boat.

PTOMAIN POISONING

It is not uncommon to read in the newspapers of the death or serious illness of some person as the result of what is called "ptomaine poisoning."
By this the laity understands subtle chemical poisons generated in food as the result of decomposition. It is true that such poisons occur. By far the greatest number of the cases prove, on investigation, to have been instances of bacterial food poisoning, cases in which the illness was due to infection with various disease germs which contaminated the food.

The most common of the germs responsible for food poisoning are related to the germs of typhoid fever, or paratyphoid fever. Another common variety is related to the germ which causes hog cholera. This form of food poisoning is probably much more common than is ordinarily supposed, and many cases of sudden diarrhoea and sick headache are probably of this nature. As a rule infection with these germs may easily be avoided by thoroughly cooking the food.

There is another form of "ptomaine poisoning" which has been rather frequently observed lately. This is called botulism, and has already been described in a previous article.

Cleanliness when handling and preparing food, keeping left-over dishes in the ice box, and thoroughly cooking all foods constitute a reliable safeguard against most of the common varieties of food poisoning.

HERNIA

Q. I have a hernia which troubles me more in summer than in winter, though of small size. I have used a spring truss for the last 20 years, but it gives me little relief. Will you kindly tell me if there is a better appliance or a cure for hernia?

A. It appears likely that the truss you are wearing is not properly fitted.
As a rule, a properly adjusted spring truss will satisfactorily control simple hernia. It is suggested, however, that you consult a good surgeon, and see whether, perhaps, an operation might not be advisable. The radical cure of an inguinal hernia is now so well understood by surgeons, that the operation is attended with success in a very high proportion of cases.

CORNS

Q. Please tell me a good remedy for corns.

A. The best remedy consists in the wearing of properly fitted shoes. The thickened skin can be removed by careful paring with a sharp knife and by various local applications. The latter are obtainable as at drug stores in the form of plasters, ointments and liquids, practically all of them consisting of salicylic acid in some form.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

THE FRIENDS DISAPPEAR

Muffy Mole took his seat and Floppy Field Mouse took his in the Meadow Grove school, looking as though there wasn't a thing in the world they liked better than to do sums and learn spelling.

Sar' Ann Spider, too, ran to her corner and hurried into her web, pretending to get out her speller and study.

Mr. Scribble Scratch called the roll, and they all sang a song Nancy had taught them, being singing teacher, wiped his mouth.

Then both looked at Sar' Ann. Sar' Ann was watching out of the corner of her eye, and quick as anything she raised her hand. "Please, Mr. Scribble Scratch, I dropped my pencil," she said.

"All right. Get down and hunt it!" nodded the fairymen going ahead with his writing on the blackboard.

The minute his back was turned,
two little gray bodies slid from their seats and down the hole beside them, which you remember were there in

"Oh, Mr. Scribble, Muff and Floppy are gone!" Nancy cried.

you know, and then Scribble Scratch told everybody to get to work.

This was the first problem:
"If Eddie Earthworm went five yards east and Effie Earthworm went five yards west, how far apart are they from home?"

Muffy had to wipe his mouth with his handkerchief.

And the second question was: "If one ear of corn had ten rows of grains and another ear has 12, which has the most?"

Floppy borrowed Muff's hanky and case Snoopy Skunk or Orris Owl got hungry before recess.

But nobody missed them until Nancy looked up from marking papers.

"Oh, Mr. Scribble Scratch, Muff and Floppy are gone!" she cried.

"Look down the hole quick!" answered the fairy.

Everybody ran over, but Mark Muskrat exclaimed, "Why they haven't gone that way at all. There's a sudden web over it, and there's not a thread broken!"

Such is Life

Whence arose this ancient enmity between The Moon and The Fish?

Why does the 'paragon of creation' spend hundreds of dollars and days and weeks of time and travel in pursuit of a few pounds of fish-flesh?

Reels and rods and flies and creels are manufactured with infinite care and skill and at what seems a prohibitive expense.

Men buy them eagerly and use them with such meager results that the frugal mind is appalled.

It used to be said that more money was put into gold mining than was ever taken out of gold mines, and therefore some prudent people refused to invest in gold stock.

Such an argument would never daunt your true fisherman. He will concede that if trout were worth their weight in gold, the annual catch would scarce repay the aggregate invested in paraphernalia and pursuit, but that does not deter him in the least from making a far journey each season for the same vain purpose.

When a party of truthful fishermen (oh, aye, there be such) gather together, each will tell accurately of every game fish that he ever caught, with date, time, place, weight in ounces and detailed report of the contest by rounds.

When all the tales are done and the results added, the innocent bystander is amazed to find that the total catch of a lifetime would scarce be startling if every fish were a whale.

Surely there is something of the spirit of the modern cavalier or crusader in the modern fisherman.

He fares forth in full panoply of battle.

He falls to with great energy and spirit and seizes such spoil as he may.
And if no such blessing fall to his good weapon, at least he is still the brave knight and gallant adventurer.

He has kept the faith!

Doubtless he tells himself that none of the King Arthur's Knights really obtained possession of the Holy Grail in the pursuit of which they spent their lives, yet they had all the joy of the pursuit.

What excellent fishermen these knights of the Round Table would have made!

Seeking something with a kick, congressmen in Japan found saki has a sock.

The moth that gets into a bathing suit this autumn will starve to death.

THE BOOK OF ANN.

I FOLLOW ANN TO THE BATHING
BEACH AND DISCOVER A TRAG-EDY.

If I hadn't been so anxious to get rid of Ann I might have indulged in a little sisterly impertinence. I might have asked her:

"Why are you interested in White Point? Don't you know it's a public bathing beach? And simply packed with people on a hot day like this? If you want to see it, go out some morning!"

But being set on resuming my darning and my meditation about the best way to make up my quarrel with my husband, I said "good bye" to Ann with a sense of release as well as relief. Not until I saw Ann flitting through the Lorimer park, carrying her precious yellow bathing suit in its box did I get the significance of the talk at my phone.

"White Point! In an hour!" I had heard her say.

What was up? Nothing desirable, from a Lorimer point of view.

"She's going to meet Claude Ivagain!" I thought. "At a public bathing beach. She is! She is! Daddy fancied he had saved her. But it was only so that she could make a worse mistake, I guess."

I couldn't tell Bob—I couldn't tell anybody but Chrys. I called her on the phone. She had gone out.

"I must be crazy," I said to myself.
"Is Ann really going to meet that man today?" Then with sharp decision:

"No! She is not! I set out to spoil that little game, and I've paid a big price up to date. I guess I'll see it to a finish!"

I phoned to the head chauffeur at the Lorimer garage to send a roadster over. I would drive the car myself. I phoned to Mother Lorimer's maid and asked for Ann. As I expected, Ann was not in the house.

"Little goose!" Thus I scolded away to myself. "She's evaded us all, once more. But I think it is for the last time. If she doesn't get a lesson any other way, today, I think it's up to me to teach her!"

I didn't have a definite idea of what I was going to do when I should arrive at the beach. It was a public place and chosen by Iv-because they could lose their identity in the crowd. Ann was too innocent, at least I hoped she was too innocent, to understand that she was being tricked.

And yet—she wasn't too innocent to trick us!

Tire trouble delayed my trip. Finding the man to fix the tire took longer than the repair work. Ann would be in the water, I realized, before I arrived at the shore. That was the very thing I wanted to prevent. But there was a compensation. I decided to park on "The Prospect" and watch the bathers. It would be easy for me to spot that brilliant satin bathing suit, and to discover just how innocently
Ann was conducting herself.

As I entered the park, I noticed that the people were moved by some unusual excitement. The picnic crowd in the grove was scrambling down the cliff to the sand. A twisting queue of men, women and children swayed like a gigantic many-headed snake on the narrow path of the side bank. A mob packed the approaches to the bath-house. It was opened, right and left by three mounted policemen, to make way for an ambulance.

"Another drowning," I thought.
"Bathers are so careless! Such a crush! Ann will have hysterics! I'd better look after her!"

I turned toward the lower boulevard but a policeman stopped my car.

"No cars allowed down there just now, madam!" he exclaimed. "Turn back by the right-hand road."

The traffic was crowded and unruly.
I couldn't question him. I obeyed his order and drew up at the edge of the Overlook or Prospect. Small boys were speaking in frightened tones near me:

"Sure it's murder! I seen him fall!"

"I seen him, too. Could of put my finger on him, I was that near!"

"Stop yer bluffin' or the cops may haul you into court!" This from a big boy.

A murder! The crowd swayed close to me. I listened to scraps of talk.

A man had been shot. He had been standing on the broad walk. Probably he was waiting for a girl. He was right in front of the women's dressing rooms. He had been shot in the head from above. Just one bullet did for him. A good shot. Nobody knew which window the gun had been fired from. Of course, it came from one of the women's compartments. The wing was closed now. The police were there. The women were being questioned. The place was being searched.

Anti-Saloon League Threatens Judges

Washington, Sept. 15.—A committee was appointed today at the anti-Saloon League conference here to draft a resolution warning federal judges that unless they "sacredly perform their sacred duties" in enforcing prohibition laws the league will seek their impeachment.

The committee was named by the Rev. P. A. Baker, general superintendent of the League after speakers at the conference had vigorously criticized federal judges for laxity in meting out punishment to those convicted of violation of the prohibition amendment and enforcement law.

Ralph Dunbar offers his noteworthy production of Bizet's immortal masterpiece with a scenic production in keeping with the opera and his own standards of thoroughness.

The cast includes:

Don Jose.....Joseph Callini (Lieutenant of Dragons)	or James Arnold	Micaela.....Marian Miller (A Village Maiden)
Escamillo.....James Stevens (Torador)		Frasquita.....Clara Nelson (Mercedes)
Zuniga.....Lester Spring (Captain of Dragons)		Mercedes.....Adele Folson (Companions of Carmen)
Morales.....Norman Wallace (Officer)		El Dancairo.....George Shields (Smugglers)
Lilas Pastia.....Thomas Drew (Inn-keeper)		El Remendado.....Sol Solomon (Smugglers)
Carmen.....Lorna Doone Jackson (A Gypsy Girl)	or Viola Robertson	Soldiers, cigar factory girls, gypsies, smugglers, pios-dors, matadors, townspeople.

The choral ensemble is of Mr. Dunbar's personal selection and training. The orchestra includes sixteen artists from leading American symphony orchestras, and the band on the stage is exactly as produced originally at the Opera Comique in Paris.

THE STORY OF CARMEN.

The first act opens in the public square, in which a troop of soldiers under command of Lieut. Don Jose, and loungers are waiting the approach of the pretty girls who work in the cigarette factory near by and, prettiest and most heartless of them all, Carmen. Before they appear Micaela, a village girl enters the square, bearing a message to her brother, Don Jose, from his mother, but not finding him, departs. The cigarette girls at last pass by on their way to work, and with them Carmen, who observes Don Jose sitting in an indifferent manner and throws him the rose she wears in her bosom. As the girls disappear Micaela returns and delivers her message. The sight of the gentle girl and the thoughts of home dispel Don Jose's growing passion for Carmen. He is about to throw away her rose, when a sudden disturbance is heard in the factory. It is found that Carmen has quarreled with one of the girls and wounded her. She is arrested and to avoid further mischief her arms are pinioned. She so bewitches the lieutenant, however, that he connives at her escape and succeeds in effecting it.

In the second act Carmen has returned to her wandering gypsy life, and is found with her companions singing and dancing in the cabaret of Lillas-Pastia. Escamillo arrives. He is the noted bull fighter of Grenada and Carmen completely captivates him. When the inn is closed, Escamillo and the soldiers leave, but Carmen waits with two of her gypsy band who are smugglers, for the arrival of Don Jose. They persuade her to induce him to join their band, and when the lieutenant, wild with passion for her, enters the apartment, she prevails upon him to remain, in spite of the trumpet-call which summons him to duty. An officer orders him out. He refuses to go. The gypsies are called and overpower the officer and Don Jose escapes to the mountains.

The third act transpires in the mountain haunts of the smugglers. Escamillo appears and arouses the jealousy of Don Jose and an imminent fight is barely averted. Escamillo bides his time, while Don Jose is upbraiding Carmen, the faithful Micaela, who has been guided to the spot, begs him to accompany her, as his mother is dying. Duty prevails and Don Jose leaves Carmen.

In the last act the drama hurries on to the tragic denouement. It is a gala day in Seville for Escamillo is to fight. Carmen is there in his company, although her gypsy friends have warned her that Don Jose is searching for her. Amid great pomp, Escamillo enters the arena, and Carmen is about to follow when Don Jose appears and stops her. She will not listen. The shouts of the people in the arena announce another victory for Escamillo. Carmen cries out with joy and dashes Jose's ring in fury to the ground. Don Jose springs at her like a tiger, and stabs her just as Escamillo emerges from the contest.

Baker Asks Youth to Take Training

State College, Pa., Sept. 15.—An appeal to college students of the nation to enter into advanced military training through the reserve officers' training corps at the various colleges and universities, was voiced by Secretary of War Baker in an address here today. He declared that as the list of reserve officers increased one of the great military problems of the United States would be solved.

"We are not seeking to encourage a military spirit," he said, "but to give a great body of young men a basis upon which we can build capacity for command and leadership if a national emergency require their service."

Secretary Baker declared that the greatest problem before the war department during the world war was to obtain adequately trained men to fill the commissioned ranks in the lower grades.

The R. O. T. C. movement has grown steadily during the past three years, the speaker said. At the close of the 1920 academic year there were 208 senior units having an enrollment of 43,498 students and 126 junior units with 44,777 students.

The secretary said that 5,000 probably would be the maximum number of reserve officers which the R. O. T. C. could be expected to provide annually.

Millerand Talked as Next President of French Republic

The Associated Press Leased Wire

Paris, Sept. 15.—Alexandre Millerand, French premier and foreign minister, is prominently mentioned as the next President of France should President Deschanel resign because of ill health says the Figaro. Some of M. Millerand's friends say he will refuse to become a candidate but nevertheless, there is a tendency to believe he may be induced to accept if the office is offered him unanimously.

Notwithstanding his long rest and treatment by specialists, the Figaro declares President Deschanel is unable fully to discharge the duties of his office and it said he himself feels he can no longer continue to assume the trust with which he has been invested. Nothing is known as to when he will carry out his resolution to resign but it will be soon the newspaper says.

A Demonstration of Real Economy: 2 lbs. of Mazola Fried 208 Doughnuts—2 lbs. of Lard Fried Only 138

MRS. A. LOUISE ANDREA— awarded the gold medal at the Panama-Pacific Exposition as lecturer on food and culinary topics—in a comparative test recently fried 208 doughnuts in 2 lbs. of Mazola, while only 138 could be fried in the same amount of lard.

At the same time this expert fried 24½ lbs. of potatoes in 2 lbs. of Mazola, as against 7 lbs. 14 ozs. fried in 2 lbs. of lard.

Also, she fried 25½ lbs. of fish steak, cut to a uniform thickness of one inch, in 2 lbs. of Mazola. Two lbs. of lard fried only 16½ lbs.

This means that Mazola is from twice to more than three times more economical to use than lard, on the basis of actual accomplishment.

In each test, 4 lbs. each of Mazola and lard were fried down to 2 lbs.

This confirms the experience of the seven million housewives who already use Mazola, the Great American Cooking Oil.

Further than this, because Mazola is a 100% pure vegetable oil there is no loss from evaporation, nor no loss of bulk from heating. It remains sweet and clean, and can be used over and over again, merely strain it.

Thousands of Women

Owe Their Health To

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine. Compared with it, all other medicines for women's ills seem to be experiments.

Why is it so successful? Simply because of its sterling worth. For over forty years it has had no equal. Women for two generations have depended upon it with confidence.

Thousands of Their Letters are on our files, which prove these statements to be facts, not mere boasting.

Here Are Two Sample Letters:

Mother and Daughter Helped.

Middleburg, Pa.—"I am glad to state that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me much good when I was 35 years old. I was run down with female trouble and was not able to do anything, could not walk for a year and could not work. I had treatment from a physician but did not gain. I read in the papers and books about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. The first few bottles gave me relief and I kept on using it until I got better and was able to do my work. The Vegetable Compound also regulated my daughter when she was 15 years old. I can recommend Vegetable Compound as the best medicine I have ever used."—Mrs. W. YENGER, R. 3, Box 21, Middleburg, Pa.

Fall River, Mass.—"Three years ago I gave birth to a little girl and after she was born I did not pick up well. I doctored for two months and my condition remained the same. One day one of your little books was left at my door and my husband suggested that I try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I started it immediately and I felt better and could eat better after the first bottle, and I continued taking it for some time. Last year I gave birth to a baby boy and had a much easier time as I took the Vegetable Compound for four months before baby came. On getting up I had no pains like I had before, and no dizziness, and in two weeks felt about as well as ever."—Mrs. THOMAS WILKINSON, 363 Columbia Street, Fall River, Mass.
